

Stock Throughput

Cargo, Transit & Stock policies – A combined product or insured separately?

Getting the right level of cargo insurance to integrate with our property policy can lead to gaps and inefficiencies. This is where a Stock Throughput policy can help by providing seamless coverage throughout the supply chain.

You benefit from the time you have a financial interest, from start to finish. It is applicable to any sector from international oil and gas traders to local manufacturers whether a large or small company.

Key Features

- 'All Risks' conditions for transit and storage risk
- Worldwide coverage available
- S&P / A.M. Best 'A' rated
- Specialist market facilities with dedicated capacity for an impressive service
- Primary and excess options available for insurance and reinsurance programs

For more information, please contact:

Contact Name:

Phone Number:

Agency Name:

Address:

Stock Throughput Overview

Who are the target clients?

- Buyer of insurance for marine and/or goods in transit and stock/inventory exposures
- Domestic and International commodity trading companies
- Importers, Exporters, and Distributors of fish, meat and poultry
- Energy companies within the oil, gas, and chemical industries
- Major retail companies
- Manufacturers
- Automobile distributors
- Logistics companies
- Fruit growers

What are the benefits?

- Ocean cargo, inland transit and stock/inventory all under one policy
- Specialist coverage for industry sectors and complex businesses
- Cover for primary and contingent interests
- High limits and low deductibles
- Potential gaps between multiple policies are eliminated
- Combining a number of risks under one policy provides significant price savings
- Premium can be rated against sale turnover
- Reduces the need for time consuming declarations
- The loss value can be based on the selling price of the product providing an element of business interruption cover (for single annual turn businesses this can be the annual profit)
- Competitive rates for CAT Capacity
- A highly experienced integrated claims team who have successfully obtained complex claims settlements